CALL FOR PAPERS Inclusivity Journal

"Inclusivity" is an open access journal dedicated in disseminating knowledge regarding identity, integration, diversity, inclusion and EU-related subjects to a broader audience bringing the EU closer to the public and facilitate the transfer of knowledge to interested specialists, decision-makers, and society at large.

The journal "Inclusivity" employs a dual approach, integrating analytical and synthetic methods, to examine fundamental and specific issues pertaining to the theorization, conceptualization, and operationalization of concepts within its primary areas of focus.

The journal "Inclusivity" is published within the EuroINCLUS Research Center, University of Oradea, Romania.

This approach is intended to establish a framework for research design in the specific areas targeted and to engage young researchers, doctoral students, master's students, and undergraduates in the development of research teams that promote academic knowledge and facilitate the transfer of knowledge to interested specialists, decision-makers, and society at large.

The fundamental areas targeted by the Inclusivity journal are as follows:

1. Identity management and issues related to ethno-national, linguistic, and religious minorities
2. Cultural and educational integration
3. Socio-economic inclusion at the community and society levels
4. Interculturality, integration, resilience, and societal security
5. Cultural-historical heritage and cultural diplomacy
6. Migration management and refugee issues
7. Human rights and vulnerable groups
8. Fundamentalism, divisions, borders, and identity conflicts

"Inclusivity" is a biannual, open access, double-blind peer-reviewed academic journal. The issues of the journal will include multi and interdisciplinary papers. The papers have to be sent in English for evaluation until the 31st of January and the 31st of May of the year. The submission of manuscripts is made only via online to the secretary of the editorial board inclusivity@uoradea.ro or to editor in chief Prof. Mircea Brie mirceabrie@gmail.com

The papers that do not respect the publishing conditions and are not integrated in the theme of the journal will be rejected by the Editorial Board. In order to be accepted for publication, each article must obtain the consent of two of the journal's scientific referents.

The authors are entirely responsible for the content of their papers.

The contributors are required to follow the authors guidelines provided on the journal's website. The paper acceptance is conditional on strict compliance with the editing conditions, including references.

The articles submitted should be formatted as presented below. A model is also available for download from the following link: formatted document.
